has successfully completed the online, non-credit Specialization

Introduction to Business

In the specialization, learners developed essential skills related to management and strategic planning, digital marketing, and finance that will support them in a business operations role. Specific topics of focus included people management, leadership development, strategic planning, search engine strategies, reputation management, content creation, common financial statements, cash flow, and expense management. Learners demonstrated their mastery of these subject areas with three course projects, including the creation of a strategic planning session agenda, preparing digital marketing strategy recommendations, and writing a paper concerning statements of cash flow and ratios.
